Big Peach Crop in Sight.

(The West Plains Gazette.) Present indications point to the fact that the great Howell and Oregon county peach belt will have an immense crop of peaches this year. Reports from Koshkonong, Brandeville, Olden, Pomoa and other peach shipping stations state that the peach buds remain uninjured and conditions are favorable for a good crop.

The critical period has not yet been passed. Early frosts in April are much feared by the growers. While February has always been feared by fruit men, there is much danger in April, after the peaches have bloomed and the buds are in their infancy.

According to W. E. Gratton, of Brandeville, manager of the Ozark Fruit Farm, the largest peach orchard in the entire Koshkonong-Brandeville district, the crop this year will not be as large as that of 1915. The buds have been swatted to some extent by the cold weather early in the winter and there is no walling over this fact.

When the trees are loaded to their fullest capacity with buds and a majority of the buds mature and grow peaches, it is necessary to have men go through the orchards with poles and thin out the peaches. If this is not done the trees are over loaded and the fruit does not attain large size. Props must be placed under the heavily laden limbs to support them, and this makes more expense for the grower. If Jack Frost gets in his work and thins out the buds by nature, the grower is happy.

Paul Evans, director of the State Fruit Experiment Station at Mountain Grove, visited Koshkonong last week and inspected the trees on several orchards. He found enough live buds to insure a big crop of peaches. Mr.
Evans says that the fruit gives promises of being very large, especially if the buds are thinned out.

The Preparedness Program.

The tax-payers are now able to sit in judgment upon the preparedness program. The army experts ask for 600 millions for the first year and 319 millions per year thereafter. This is for the army.

The Navy board, according to Admiral Fletcher (see press dispatches printed March 9th) asks for one billion and a half to put the navy in proper shape, and then 700 millions per year thereafter to keep it up. This is not for an "incomparably" greater navy, such as the president asked for, but simply for a navy that will EQUAL any other navy afloat by 1925, and it is for a navy to equal other navies as they are NOW—not as they will be after we spur them on by our new policy.

In other words, the Army board and Navy board now demand that the annual appropriations for army and navy shall be MORE THAN QUAD-RUPLD, and that we shall permanently spend OVER ONE BILLION per year on army and navy. THIS IS MORE THAN TWICE THE NET IN-COME RECEIVED BY ALL the farmers of the United States from all their crops—and yet the jingoes think that any man who objects to the program is a "white-livered coward."—

Good News.

Many Ironton Readers Have Heard it and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the many bad back sufferers in Ironton are glad to learn where relief may be found. Many a lame, weak and aching back is no more, thanks to Don's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with this tested remedy.
Here is an example worth reading:

Mrs. Nellie Rust, Ironton, says:
"One of my family was in pretty bad shape and suffered almost constantly from backache, sometimes being scarcely able to get about. The kidney secretions were generally too frequent in passage, particularly at night and often painful. Don's Kidney Pills, procured at the Arcadia Valley Drug Co., stopped all that and we have never been without them in the house since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get

Mrs. Rust recommends. Foster-Mil-

Get a Fresh Start!

For men who got away to a false start on a pipe or home-made cigarettes Prince Albert has a word or two for what ails their smokeappetites!

Forget you ever tried to smoke, for Prince Albert is so different, such a fine flavor, so cool and cheerful and friendly, you'll get a new idea of smoke joy! The patented process fixes that—and cuts out bite and parch!

And this little preachment is also for men who think they're on the right track. All to be said is that the sooner you lay out a nickel or a dime for a supply of Prince Albert, the sooner you'll make a discovery that'll be worth a lot to your peace of mind and tongue!

Get the idea of smoking all you want without a comeback—that's P. A.!

From W. W. Strother.

Dear Mr. Editor:—The article of last week's REGISTER from Mr. Stith of Hadley, Missouri, was good as far as it went, but where it stopped, it left me in the wrong place with the Public School District and all the Business Men and many others at Des Arc.

First, after the property was bought in it developed that the men who were running the Nazarene College, knew, as I did, that the Nazarene church was not incorporated, and therefore, had no charter. This being the fact, there was no one to deed the property to. I refused to turn the property to them until their General Superintendent got on the grounds and assured the people that the church would make the school go.

Another point was raised by Mr.
Stith in which he said two lawyers had told him the Nazarene Church could hold the furniture and fixtures they had put in the school since they signed a contract with the original Board of Trustees, that was handling the school under the original charter, that the Holiness Association people had After Mr. Stith's statement I told him and G. W. Wallis that L. L. White and I would not help take up the several notes held by the bank of Des Arc if the church could come in and take the staff the notes was given for. It was our understanding the mortgage covered the whole thing and we would help pay the debts on the furniture and leave the property in shape to carry on the school. While we had agreed to hold take care of the notes, yet when the fact was made plain that we were not getting value received we turned it over to Messrs.
Stith and Wallis, and the church can handle it to suit themselves.

I offered to Mr. Stith and Wallis that if they would relieve L. L. White and myself of our part of the $1330.00 and our expenses we would step out and turn the whole thing over to them, and they refused. And before Mr. Stith left Des Arc he and Mr.
Wallis called me to one side and told me to try to close a deal with the Des Arc Public School and tell them the property, as the school election was near, and as we had told the church folks we would not lose an opportunity of selling the property. So, instead of me coming back to Fredericktown that day, I stayed over and went to every business man I could see and a lot of citizens and told them to get busy if they wanted the property, and it met the hearty approval of every man I met except two.

Now I should have written a letter for the REGISTER as soon as I came home, but the President of the Consolidated Store & Mfg. Co., Lin Grisham, got his hand scratched in cranking his machine and took blood poison, and I was the choice of him and his family to stay with him and care for him, as he preferred staying at home to going to St. Louis. Have been with the company since December 2, 1914, and did more than $17,000 of business last year, and up to this date I haven't lost a minute's time. Mr. Grisham was a personal friend of mine and when I went to fill a pulpit for any of the preachers, or go to Conference, he gave me straight time and furnished me a good horse and buggy, free, to get out in the country and preach. One-third the net profits were mine and now, with the business that's piled up for the past twelve days, I am pressed for time. Last Thursday evening at 8 o'clock Mr. Lin Grisham passed into a better world and left the greatest testimony I ever heard, and was happy and ready to change worlds.

Very truly,
W. W. STROTHER,
Fredericktown, Mo.

Whooping Cough.

Whooping cough derives its name from the peculiar inspiratory whoop following a paroxysm of coughing.
The disease occurs in extensive epidemics, apparently it is a disease of fairly modern origin. At least we do not find it certainly described by ancient writers.

It is caused by a small germ which is thrown out in the act of coughing, consequently it is spread most often by direct contact of one child with another. The germ may, however, be carried from one person to another by handkerchiefs, toys, drinking cups, roller towels and other objects which become infected with the secretions of the respiratory tract. It is said that some of the lower animals, particularly the dog, are occasionally infected with whooping cough, and the disease may be spread in this manner.
It is contagious from the appearance of the earliest symptoms, and the danger of contagion is greater during the early stages, although it exists throughout the disease and during convalescence. After exposure, a period of from one to two weeks elapses before the appearance of symptoms.

People generally do not realize the dangerous character of whooping cough. The death rate in the United States is about 10,000 a year—more than from scarlet fever. It is particularly dangerous to children under 3 years of age and to those who are tuberculous.

The principle of prevention is simple. Since the disease is spread entirely by the secretions from the respiratory tract, prevention consists in keeping other children from coming in contact with these. Isolation of patients is necessary. Toys, handkerchiefs, etc., should not be passed from a sick child to well ones. Sick children should not be allowed to go to school, theatre or public assemblies of any sort. Owing to the long duration of an attack of whooping cough and the fact that children are seldom ill enough to be confined to bed, isolation is particularly hard to carry out.
An abundance of fresh air helps in the treatment and there is no objection to children going out provided they are in the care of an intelligent person who will prevent contact with well children. In some cities, the wearing of an arm-band marked "whooping cough" has been tried with apparent good results. This prevents other children from coming in close contact with sick ones. The closer the contact, the greater the danger.

A vaccine made from the germ is quite extensively employed. From three to four injections are given, and in a great majority of cases, according to reports, the disease is prevented.
The same vaccine is used for treatment with extremely good results.
While the matter is not yet considered settled, no harm can come from the use of the vaccine, and it has produced such favorable results wherever tried, that its use is to be recommended, especially since no other satisfactory form of treatment has yet been devised. While certain drugs apparently have a favorable influence, none has been found which will stop the attack, and much harm is often done by too much dragging.

Efficiency?

Officials of the railroad brother-hoods contend that if the railroads were compelled to pay overtime rates, they would see to it that trains were sent over the road on schedule time. The proposition, therefore, is that the rate of speed be raised to an average of twelve and one-half miles, so that runs of 100 miles may be made in eight hours instead of in ten. The same rate now paid for ten hours would be paid for eight.

Where it possible to increase the speed as the union men say, the change would not affect the railroads to such a great extent, so far as road service is concerned. But is it possible to so increase the speed? Railroad officials say it is not, or it would be done now as an operating economy. If trains are unnecessarily delayed, it is an admission of inefficiency somewhere. American railroad men are regarded as being the most efficient in the world. When England, after the outbreak of the European war, established a record for the rapid transportation of troops to embarking points, it was an American railroad man who handled the traffic. He gave staid old England a lesson in the matter of handling trains.

From a business point of view it would not seem reasonable that trains are needlessly held up. Anyone must see that it is economical to get trains over the tracks as speedily as is consistent with safe operation. The payment of overtime rates to train crews would hardly appear to be the remedy for slow operation.
